

SEEPS Camp 2023 (Online)

February 16 & 17, 2023

Applications Due: December 16, 2022

Organized by the Society for Environmental Economics and Policy Studies
(SEEPS)

In 2021, the Society for Environmental Economics and Policy Studies (SEEPS) launched a new event called the SEEPS Camp. Following the success of the SEEPS Camp 2021 and 2022, we are happy to announce that we will organize the SEEPS Camp 2023 in February. The purpose of the Camp is to bring together a small group of outstanding Ph.D. students and young researchers who will lead the SEEPS in the future and to provide them with opportunities to interact with each other. The SEEPS Camp is expected to be a platform for young researchers who engage in environmental economics and policy studies to meet and encourage each other.

Ten participants will present their research plans or outcomes and exchange ideas. They will have an opportunity to join a panel session with mid-career members of the SEEPS who will share how to develop an academic career, and they will also have time to talk with the participants.

The Camp 2023 will be held online. The next year, we plan to organize the Camp in person for two days.

Dates: On the afternoons of February 16 and 17, 2023 (from 14:30 to 19:45 JST, including a social gathering)

Eligibility:

To apply for the SEEPS Camp 2023, you must hold a master's degree. The applicants would be a Ph.D. student, a businessperson who has received a master's degree within the past eight years, or an early career researcher who has received a Ph.D. within the past five years at the time of the application.

Non-members of SEEPS and those living outside Japan are also welcome.

Application:

To apply please send an email to the SEEPS office (seeps-post@bunken.co.jp).

Files to attach an email include:

- 1) Curriculum vitae
- 2) Research proposal (or abstract of your research paper) and a description of your motivation for studying environmental economics and policies.
(no more than 2 pages)

There are no requirements for formatting. Manuscripts should be in English or Japanese.

The application deadline is December 16, 2022. Ten participants will be selected. We will notify you of your admission in early February.

If you have any questions, please email Hide-Fumi Yokoo, at hidefumi.yokoo@r.hit-u.ac.jp.

Participation is free.

Participation Requirements:

We will use Zoom. A networking environment, a computer, a camera, and a microphone are required. All participants are required to keep their cameras on during the meeting.

Organizing Committee:

Hide-Fumi Yokoo (Hitotsubashi University), Kazuki Kagohashi (Nanzan University), Mai Miyamoto (Konan University)

Tentative Program:

JST/UTC+9

Thursday, February 16

14:30 Welcome by the Organizing Committee. Self-introduction by participants

15:30 – 17:00

Presentations by three participants

17:15 – 18:45

Presentations by three participants

18:45 to around 19:45

Social event (dinner with a party pack delivery from SEEPS) using the function of the Zoom Breakout Room.

Friday, February 17

14:30 – 16:30 Presentations by four participants

16:45 – 18:30

Sharing experiences of seniors: “Career development after your Master course”

Mid-career researchers in the SEEPS will share their experiences on “job-hunting for academic jobs” and their career development, followed by a question-and-answer session.

Speakers: TBA

Social gathering from 17:00 with the participation of speakers.